

THE TRUTH ABOUT DEFENSINS

THE TRUTH ABOUT DEFENSINS

What They Are and What Can They Do for Your Skin

Why try to repair old skin when you can create new skin?

According to clinical studies, our body has the ability to produce visibly new and young skin, and naturally turn the clock back. The secret weapon is Age-Repair Defensins®, available exclusively in DefenAge Skincare formulas. Defensins can reprogram your body to make skin visibly younger. Find out how.

With so many skincare ingredients available, it can be difficult to keep them straight. From peptides to stem cells and growth factors, many products with these ingredients claim to be the fountain of youth – but understanding these pieces of the skincare puzzle and what each does within the skin is key.

Peptides

By definition, peptides are long chains of amino acids that are the building blocks of proteins. As far as skincare is concerned, peptides perform a variety of functions ranging from sending messages between cells (prompting the production of proteins such as collagen) to transporting molecules within the cell and inhibiting nerve signals (such as the ones responsible for wrinkle-causing muscle contractions).

Growth factors

Growth factors are a type of peptide; however, their main job is to promote communication within the skin, essentially sending instructions that tell the cells to replicate, repair and rejuvenate themselves. However, growth factors can be likened to an army drill sergeant, and any cell that “hears” them – “good” (such as collagen-producing cells) or “bad” (i.e. cancer cells) – will follow their instructions.

Stem cells

Stem cells are a little trickier to understand since there are a variety of types. Those found in embryos, placental tissue and umbilical cords are extremely controversial, as they come along with ethical, regulatory and infection-related concerns.

Most stem cells found in skincare are a different type of cells - usually plant-derived or adult stem cells. Although there is little scientific evidence that stem cells from fruit or other botanicals have an anti-aging effect on the skin, adult skin cells are a different story, and are not typically associated with controversy, risks or unwanted side effects.

Adult stem cells are abundant within the body, and they are responsible for replacing dying and damaged cells in all tissues and organs, as well as repairing trauma. For example, basal stem cells produce new skin cells. Similarly, hair follicle stem cells prompt hair growth; however, researchers have identified more than 10 types of hair follicle stem cells that have been found to be capable of doing a lot more, including maintaining and repairing other components of the skin.

LGR6+ stem cells are perhaps the most interesting type of hair-follicle stem cell because they have been found to act as “master stem cells” within the skin. These unique stem cells are capable of generating new hair follicles, oil glands, basal stem cells and promote wound healing. However, LGR6+ stem cells are dormant most of the time, and they need to be activated in order to repair and regenerate the skin.

That’s where Defensins come in...

Defensins

Defensins are “target-specific” molecules, which means they only work with certain types of cells – in this case, LGR6+ stem cells. Simply put, defensins “wake up” LRG6+ stem cells, prompting them to make fresh basal stem cells.

But if the basal stem cells found naturally in the skin are already creating new cells, why do we need defensins? Think of cell multiplication like photocopying... A fresh, new print-out (like basal stem cells produced by defensins is going to yield a high-quality copy. On the flip side, basal stem cells are constantly multiplying, and they become damaged over time. As a result, they create copies with the same damage every time they reproduce.

DefenAge is the only skincare line that harnesses the power of Age-Repair Defensins to target specific stem cells and prompts them to produce new, fresh skin cells.

The results

Several double-blind, placebo-controlled clinical studies have shown that DefenAge and its Age-Repair Defensins provide significant improvement in cosmetic skin elasticity and discoloration, skin evenness, appearance of visible pores, fine lines and wrinkles, hydration levels, and excess oil. The studies also show that defensins do not cause inflammation or sun-sensitivity.

“DefenAge really represents a major advanced paradigm shift seen once per decade.

The science behind this product is remarkable.

DefenAge is made of a perfect copy of human defensins, which is small enough to be absorbed into the skin.”

STEP 2 - Hydration | Neck

6-Week Perfection Neck Cream

A luxe anti-aging neck tightening cream infused with leading scientific advances. Designed to correct the challenging deep lines, folds, and impacts of gravity on the fragile skin of the neck where aging is often more noticeable.

How to use: Twice daily after cleansing, place 1 pump of cream onto fingertips. While skin is still moist, lightly massage cream onto the skin with short lifting motions using fingers of right hand to apply to left side of neck and décolleté, and vice versa. Start above breast line and work up to jawline and back of neck. Wait 30 seconds, then apply STEP THREE.

“The physical properties of the neck skin differ greatly from the skin on the face and elsewhere on the body and causes the neck to age differently than other parts of our skin. For this reason, I recommend using a topical formulation such as DefenAge’s neck cream, which was designed specifically to address the different factors in neck aging.”

2-Minute Reveal Masque

With a blend of three enzymes and sugar crystals for gentle, effective exfoliation, this masque reveals smoother and brighter skin in minutes. Used once or twice a week to eliminate the build-up of dead, dull cells, the self-warming formula helps enhance the penetration of other DefenAge products and is especially important for maximizing the defensins' action.

How to use: Apply to dry skin after cleansing. Using dry fingertips, gently massage the masque in a circular motion for 20 seconds or less (depending on skin sensitivity).
